

What to Take
What to Keep

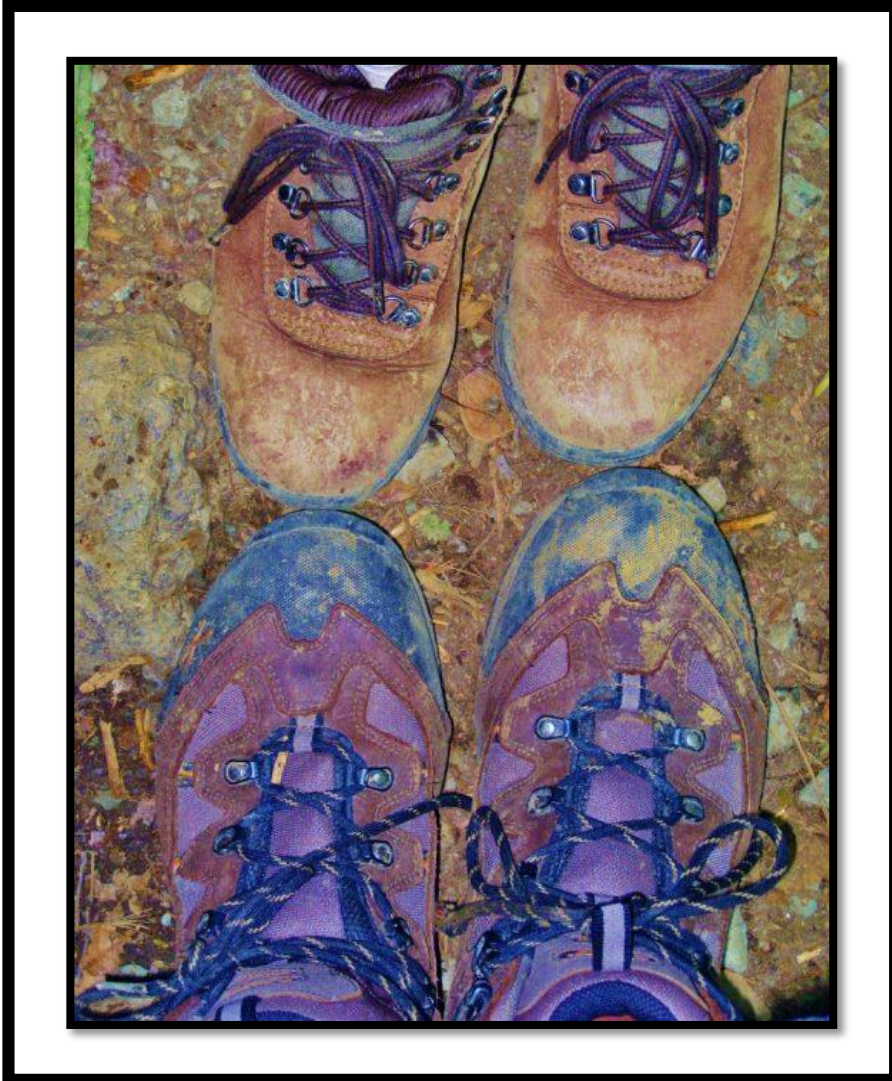

Deborah Kennedy

1000 Words plus or minus 120

The sun breaks through two days of fog spreading its fingers through the leaves.
It comes to rest here
and here and here,
its destiny
to feed a hungry world with awe.

1000 Words plus or minus 120

We climbed up eight miles for which my backside and calves will explain their complaints with great intimacy as we all crawl to bed

But now we have eight down and my knees scream epitaphs, viciously asserting my betrayal by bringing them to this place, unlike the uphill crew, so ill prepared
